

RESEARCH INTERNSHIPS

Details

Volunteer student interns wanted from March to July (dates are flexible)

You will be based in the Wild Cognition Research Group at the University of Exeter's Penryn Campus, in the beautiful region of Cornwall

Students on the Erasmus scheme are particularly encouraged

Requirements

A keen interest in Animal Behaviour

Previous field experience preferred but not essential

About us

For further information about our research see:

www.wildcognitionresearch.com

Interested?

Please send a covering letter and a CV to Alex Thornton:

alex.thornton@exeter.ac.uk

Social behaviour and cognition in wild corvids

Are you an undergraduate/Masters student in biology/ psychology?

Would you like to gain RESEARCH EXPERIENCE in animal behaviour and cognition?

Corvids (birds of the crow family) are among the most intelligent animals on Earth! Our research aims to understand cognitive mechanisms and evolutionary function of these birds' extraordinary abilities

